BOARD VALUE PROPOSITION

My career has been built at the intersection of enterprise strategy, technology innovation, and organizational transformation, advising executive leadership across Fortune 100 organizations, global consulting firms, and U.S. Department of Defense agencies where complex decisions demanded disciplined judgment, accountability, and measurable business outcomes. These experiences have shaped the perspective I bring to the boardroom—one that balances strategic ambition with thoughtful oversight, responsible innovation, and sustainable enterprise performance.

Over more than twenty-five years, I have helped organizations navigate periods of growth, modernization, and technological change while operating within highly regulated and mission-critical environments. Working alongside executive leadership has reinforced the importance of evaluating opportunities through a broad organizational lens—considering operational resilience, financial stewardship, stakeholder interests, and long-term strategic objectives alongside innovation.

Artificial intelligence and emerging technologies are reshaping every industry, but their lasting impact depends on the quality of the decisions that guide their adoption. I believe Boards play an essential role in ensuring innovation is introduced with appropriate governance, cybersecurity awareness, ethical accountability, and a clear understanding of enterprise risk. My experience enables me to contribute practical insight that supports informed decision-making while encouraging organizations to embrace innovation with confidence and discipline.

Beyond technology, I bring experience advising leaders on enterprise transformation, organizational scalability, strategic partnerships, and business modernization initiatives that strengthen competitiveness and prepare organizations for future opportunities. These engagements have provided a broad appreciation for balancing investment priorities with organizational capability, operational effectiveness, and sustainable growth across diverse industries and complex business environments.

As an Independent Director, I contribute an objective perspective that values independent judgment, constructive dialogue, and collaborative leadership. I believe effective Boards create lasting value by challenging assumptions thoughtfully, encouraging informed decision-making, and maintaining a clear focus on the organization's long-term direction while supporting management in executing its strategic priorities.

My commitment is to help Boards strengthen strategic oversight, navigate emerging opportunities responsibly, and build organizations that are resilient, adaptable, and positioned for enduring success. I seek to contribute experience, perspective, and balanced judgment that support sustainable performance and create lasting value for shareholders and stakeholders alike.
